Hi Alice,

I've also finished all of my tasks, I'll be uploading them tonight. I found it difficult to find much useful information about betting mechanics in games so I have looked into other games which make use of betting to see how different systems affect gameplay.

Hi Beth,

Just to let you know I have now finished my tasks, as I spent less time than expected on the research task, I reviewed other games and noted what we could do for our next iteration. After looking at this weeks feedback, I also decided to have a quick look at new questions we could have which let players get to know each other better when they're not playing with friends they know well. I've put these questions into the research task document.

Looking forward to discussing our ideas next week.

Alice
